HIGHLIGHT

Habili Mayam is a long reef that rises from the depths. At the southwestern tip, there is a plateau at a depth of approximately 28 meters. Not only are the schools of hammerhead sharks—which are frequently seen here—impressive, but so are the gray reef sharks, silky sharks, manta rays, and dolphins.

Description

Habili Mayam is a long reef that rises from the depths. At the southwestern tip, there is a plateau at a depth of approximately 28 meters. Not only are the schools of hammerhead sharks—which are frequently seen here—impressive, but so are the gray reef sharks, silky sharks, manta rays, and dolphins.

A drift dive along the reef, with its spectacular drop-off and schools of fish, makes for an unforgettable diving experience.
