HIGHLIGHT

Kudarah Thila is only about 80 meters long but is certainly one of the most beautiful dive sites in South Ari Atoll. The reef begins at a depth of 14 meters with steep walls dropping to depths of 20–25 meters. It is broken up into several sections, with a small canyon on the north side and a long cave at a depth of about 20 meters on the east side.

Description

Kudarah Thila is only about 80 meters long but is certainly one of the most beautiful dive sites in South Ari Atoll. The reef begins at a depth of 14 meters with steep walls dropping to depths of 20–25 meters. It is broken up into several sections, with a small canyon on the north side and a long cave at a depth of about 20 meters on the east side. If the current allows, you can circle the entire reef. The entire thila is inhabited by a huge school of blue-striped snappers, so at times you can't even see the reef for all the fish! Small whitetip sharks, groupers, nudibranchs, and mackerel round out the scene.
